

INSURANCE
WE WRITE IT.
J. L. LATHROP & SONS,
28 Shattuck St., Norwich, Conn.

Save on anything else you will, but not on that.
That you are sufficiently protected and do it now.
ISAAC S. JONES,
Insurance and Real Estate Agent,
Richards Building, 31 Main Street

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
AMOS A. BROWNING
Attorney-at-law, 3 Richards Bldg.
Phone 700.

Brown & Perkins, Attorneys-at-Law
Over Uncas Nat. Bank, Shattuck St.
Entrance stairway near to National Bank. Telephone 38-2.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY
SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED.
Opens March 24—Charles Croker,
Former N. F. A. Player, is the First String Pitcher.

The Catholic University schedule which has just appeared in the Washington Star embraces twenty-five games, the first to be played with the Maryland Aggies on March 24, and the last with the Army at West Point, on June 5th. Chas. Croker of Norwich is first string pitcher on the team. The list of games follows:
March 24—M. C. A. at Washington; Gallatin at Washington; 31, University of Vermont at Washington; April 1, Zahlich at Washington; 3, Holy Cross at Washington; 5, Penn State at Washington; 10, John Hopkins at Washington; 16, University of Virginia at Washington; 14, Rock Hill at Washington; 21, Virginia at Charlotteville; 22, Harvard at Washington; 24, Trinity at Washington; 25, Villanova at Washington.
May 1, Trinity of North Carolina at Washington; 5, Washington and Lee at Washington; 8, Navy at Annapolis; 12, Western Maryland at Washington; 14, Swarthmore at Philadelphia; 15, Villanova at Philadelphia; 19, Navy at Annapolis; 22, Guilford at Rockland; 25, Bucknell at Washington; 28, Swarthmore at Washington; 31, Lehigh at South Bethlehem; June 5, Army at West Point.

MANAGER HUGHES PROPOSES
N. L. COUNTY LEAGUE.
Circuit to consist of Four Teams, All Stars, Sachems, Baltic and Tatville Named.

Manager Hughes of the All Stars is the author of a novel and ingenious plan for the formation of a league in New London county. He proposed the All Stars, Sachems, Baltic and Tatville form a four club league and play eight games for the championship of the county. The schedule commences on May 1, and concludes on May 30th. Games to be played on Saturdays at Baltic and Tatville and on Sundays on the Cranberry and Sachems grounds. The league has many advantages. There is no question but that the interest in baseball runs throughout the county would be increased as the winner would have a better claim to the county championship than any team of baseball. Again, the shortness of the schedule would leave plenty of time in which to play outside teams.

The Williamtown Thread Mill League is not well underway until June 1st, when a Williamtown team might be added to the league with either a New London team or the Riverside club to balance it. Managers Benedict, Donnelly and McBurray of Tatville, Baltic and the Sachems respectively will meet in the near future and consider the matter with Manager Hughes.

Kilbane Outboxed Young Kansas
Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland, O., featherweight champion, outboxed Young Kansas of Buffalo, in the last three rounds of a ten round fight here tonight. Kansas held the champion seven rounds. Neither fighter suffered much punishment. Kilbane weighed 123 and Kansas 129½.

Druggists Recommend a Real Kidney Medicine

I have sold a great many bottles of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root during the past twenty years and it is a preparation that is very satisfactory to my customers who buy it. I have heard a good many expressions of approval from those who have used it. I think it a good remedy and if I were in need of a medicine I should certainly buy Swamp-Root for any case of Kidney, Liver or Bladder trouble.

WILLIAM N. WOOD,
Druggist,
Ashburham, Mass.

Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of August, 1909, William N. Wood, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and fact.

WALTON B. WHITNEY,
Notary Public.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You
Send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample size bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling about the kidneys and bladder. When writing be sure and mention the Norwich Daily Bulletin. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

W. TYLER BROWNE, M. D.,
Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat, Electricity,
X-RAY
Visitors: 19 a. m. to 4 and 6 to 8 p. m.
115 Broadway, Norwich, Conn. Take
Franklin St. car to "Dr. Browne's"
Anso

EASTERN ASSO'N DROPS TWO TEAMS

Moguls Held Adjourned Annual Meeting in New Haven—Waterbury and New Britain Out of the League—Consolidation Plan Given Very Brief Discussion—Sidney W. Challenger, Official Scorer, Directed to Draw Up Two Schedules—"Split Season" May be Used.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 1.—The Waterbury and New Britain clubs were dropped from the Eastern Baseball association at the adjourned annual meeting of the directors of that organization here today. This reduces the circuit to a six-team league, made up of Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and New London, in Connecticut, and Springfield and Pittsfield, in Massachusetts.

For several seasons past the Waterbury and New Britain clubs have been losing ventures financially and today's action by the directors has been forecasted for some time. Since the Cleveland club of the American league withdrew its interest in the Waterbury club, managers of the club had been made to finance it locally.

Manager William Seinski of the New Britain club had been endeavoring to transfer his franchise from New Britain to Northampton, Mass., which was at one time in the league, but his efforts, it is understood, met with little encouragement in that city. The much-discussed subject of possible consolidation of the Eastern association and the New England league was given very brief discussion, as was the proposed invasion of New England by the Federal league. In regard to the question of consolidation, President James H. O'Rourke of the association reminded the directors that each league was bound by a five-year working agreement, and any action looking to consolidation would require an unanimous vote of all the clubs of both leagues. He did not believe such a vote could be had.

Manager Seinski offered to turn over to the association the players now on his list in New Britain, which was allowed to the association, and this proposition the directors accepted. The players will probably be apportioned among the different teams of the association. Seinski, however, was allowed to retain an option on the New Britain franchise, which was explained as an effort should be made at some later time to revive the club there.

The directors also directed Sidney W. Challenger of Bridgeport, the official scorer, to draw up two schedules, one to run from April 28 to Sept. 6, and the other from Sept. 14 to July 4, the latter to be used should the directors decide to try out the "split season" plan this year. A schedule of games for the two openings days of the season, December 31 and January 1, and Labor day was also arranged tentatively. They are as follows:

April 28—Springfield at New London, Pittsfield at Bridgeport, Hartford at New Haven.

April 29—New London at Springfield, Bridgeport at Pittsfield, New Haven at Hartford.

May 30 (Decoration day)—Morning games: New Haven at Bridgeport, Hartford at Springfield, Bridgeport at Hartford. Labor day—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Hartford at New London.

July 4—Morning: New Haven at New London, Pittsfield at Springfield, Hartford at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 5—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 6—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 7—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 8—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 9—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 10—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 11—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 12—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 13—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 14—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

July 15—Morning: New Haven at Bridgeport, Afternoon: Springfield at New Haven, Hartford at Bridgeport, Bridgeport at Hartford.

Springfield at Pittsfield. Afternoon: Bridgeport at New Haven, Hartford at New London, Springfield at Pittsfield. Those present were, besides President O'Rourke, H. Eugene McCann, New London; William Seinski, New Britain; Hugh Reddy, Bridgeport; and James H. O'Rourke, Hartford. Clarkin, the proxy of William E. Carey of Springfield and O'Rourke the proxies of John J. Zeller of Pittsfield and George Cameron of New Haven.

DATES FINALLY SETTLED FOR COLLEGIATE SWIMMING.
League to Abandon 50 Yard Race—Union and Amherst Still Remain Out of the Fold.

In spite of the fact that several meets in the intercollegiate swimming series have been held, the final dates for the remaining contests have been settled as a result of a lively meeting. Yale has endeavored to swim Columbia in January, but the Yale and Columbia could not arrange a date, and the Yale then insisted that Columbia forfeit. The same held true between Yale and Princeton, but the Yale and Princeton could not arrange a date, and the Yale then insisted that Princeton forfeit. The matter was thrashed out and meets arranged for February. Yale's contention being that it was a matter of honor to have a swimmer from Yale swim Columbia on Feb. 12 at New Haven and the University of Pennsylvania on Feb. 27 at Philadelphia, immediately following the Princeton meet at Princeton on Feb. 26. Yale is confident that its all around team can take on both colleges in succession and more than hold its own.

After long debate it was finally decided that the league would abandon the 50 yard race, which had been planned for colleges not represented in the league, and none of the colleges in the association was to be permitted to enter men. The league will be immediately notified of the change in the policy of the league. Amherst and Union colleges are petitioning the league to admit them to their fold, but the league decided to stand firm in demanding that these colleges form teams of their own. It is probable that both of these colleges would be immediately admitted if they had a polo team.

In the meets that have been held so far this season the College of the City of New York has lost to all the other colleges in the league, Columbia, Yale, Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania, therefore stand even in the standing of the league, with the City college leads at the bottom of the list. A peculiarity of the schedule as arranged calls for the Princeton-Pennsylvania meet to be held after the intercollegiate, which will be held on March 5 at New Haven. The league could not arrange for a meet except on March 11.

What Yeager Thinks.
Abe Yeager, sporting expert of the Brooklyn Eagle, comes to bat with the following under the caption "Redging on New League."

Gilmore denies that the Feds are going to finance a big minor league in New England. We have a hunch that before the European war is over the Feds will stop some other financial clutter. A jug holds no more than you can drink.

Minor leagues had an exceptionally bad year in 1914. They are going to have as bad or worse in 1915, as sure as a horse's head. The New England league and the Eastern association, formerly called the Connecticut league, did not make enough money last year to attract the attention of John D. Rockefeller or the sanctimonious reformers in congress.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

before the European war is over the Feds will stop some other financial clutter. A jug holds no more than you can drink.

Minor leagues had an exceptionally bad year in 1914. They are going to have as bad or worse in 1915, as sure as a horse's head. The New England league and the Eastern association, formerly called the Connecticut league, did not make enough money last year to attract the attention of John D. Rockefeller or the sanctimonious reformers in congress.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

To attempt to galvanize the pocket-books of the New England fans by telling them that they are to patronize a subsidiary of the Federal league strikes into a hard way to that end. Brother Gilmore supports this view by naively stating that he expects local capitalists in every town to support a league which will be run with cast-offs from the Federal league.

These leagues did not make money for the very simple reason that enough fans did not go to the games. There was no internal reason for the decline in receipts. The fans were willing to accept the class of baseball to which the population of the cities entitled them, but "When you ain't got no money you needn't come around," and the fans didn't have the money to spend on amusements.

Pittsfield club, has received a letter from Owner John Zeller telling him he will not send him a contract this year, which means Bridges is released. The letter is peculiarly New York City. Contracts must be in the hands of players before February 1, or they will be free agents. Bridges has done the greater part of the catching for the Pittsfield club for the past two seasons. Zeller has taken this step because of the reaction in the salary limit of the Eastern association from $2,500 to $2,000. He did not want to ask Bridges to work for less money, and gave him his freedom—at least, that is the explanation his friends are giving out.

YALE WILL BE REPRESENTED BY CAMP
At Annual Convention of Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee.

The veteran Walter Camp has been again selected as Yale's representative at the annual convention of the intercollegiate football rules committee, which will be held here this week. This annual announcement has been taken for granted for many years, but is rather unexpected at this time because of the catching by Captain Aleck Wilson of the Yale eleven several days ago of Prof. Robert Corwin as new football member of the Yale athletic committee. Mr. Camp has requested that he be relieved of as much of the routine committee work in connection with Yale athletics as possible, and it has been believed that Professor Corwin would succeed to the office held by Mr. Camp for more than 20 years. Yale's member of the intercollegiate football rules committee.

Mr. Camp, however, has sent Mr. Wilson a request that he represent the university as usual, and Mr. Camp has agreed to take up his new historic work of construction and revision of football rules. As football rule builder Mr. Camp has exerted a wider influence on the game than any other individual. In 1883 when the game seemed to be dying, it was Mr. Camp who revived it by introducing a play which would bring system and organization into it. Mr. Camp proposed and succeeded in securing the adoption of the new rules, and since that time he has been the backbone of the game. For 20 years it was the backbone of football. Nine years ago it was Mr. Camp who took up the need of change and warmly advocated and finally induced the rules committee to adopt the 10 yards in four downs rule.

For five years Mr. Camp has been ardently devising new rules to open the game, and as Yale's advisor of football he has rendered the university invaluable service. Year by year he has been secretary of the rules committee, and his work in codifying and revising the rules has been recognized by that body as impossible to duplicate. A general clamor went up when Mr. Camp retired from the Yale football office, and from the intercollegiate athletic committee of the university, that he be retained as Yale member of the rules committee, and Captain Wilson has heard the call and answered it.

SPORT NOTES.
Leonard Hornschmeyer (correct according to Lee Mace) says his new name had a middle name, his parents not believing in superstitions.

The Central league, after fourteen years' existence, may disappear entirely next season, having found the going of last year too much to overcome.

Organized baseball, the Federals and a host of "fans" are still busy grappling with the baseball trust, which Judge K. J. Landis now has under advisement.

Captain T. L. Huston, in a burst of confidence, says that with Birdie C. and Harry Sparrow in line there seems no reason why the Yankees should not fly high next season.

The Wisconsin-Illinois league is about to desert organized baseball and reorganize as a semi-professional league with two teams in Chicago and one in Milwaukee as headquarters.

Nick Altrock, comedian of the Nations, will coach the Annapolis midshipmen this spring and at the same time he will have under his wing Bentley and Harper, two Washington pitching recruits.

Charles Comiskey gets so few opportunities to praise one of his own players that he does not hesitate to pronounce Ray Schalk "the greatest catcher in baseball today, the equal of Buck Ewing."

Chicago mathematicians are trying to figure out the problem: Can Eddie Collins plus Olete, Russell, Spaulding and Benj. actual Speaker plus Ray Collins, Word, Leonard and Foster? A point may hang on the answer.

With a lawyer becoming the most important part of a baseball machine, Michigan of the Western league, thinks it should have a "lawyer" on its staff with the president and two members of the board of directors practicing lawyers.

George W. Pepper, attorney for the National league, says the national agreement was not entered into for protection from outsiders, but against each other, and considering it was baseball owners the agreement was not ill advised.

With B. B. Johnson, president of the American league; John K. Tener, "proxy" of the National league; and James A. Gilmore, booster of the Federal league, all in New York, it is the same time the lights of Broadway will be dimmed.

Some minor league baseball terms: "Riding the camel," meaning eating from a stool before a county, and "Hitting the camel," meaning hitting a pitcher.

Another hatbox has been buried. After a lapse of eight years Brown and Darlington have wiped the slate clean and have agreed to renew athletic relations. Both colleges are ready to start.

After two weeks of mid-year examinations the college of the intercollegiate basketball league enter upon the second lap of the championship series, with the college of the intercollegiate basketball league.

The Tigers are considered to have a slight edge on the Athletics, because as they have a clean slate, while the Athletics are marred by a defeat by the Ells.

Cornell's victory over Yale in their return game last week dropped the Blue into third place, the Red and White slipping into second position. Pennsylvania's double defeat has practically put the Quakers out of the running. They have played half of their schedule with but a lone victory over Columbia. The standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Princeton	3	0	1.000
Cornell	2	1	.667
Yale	1	1	.500
Columbia	1	2	.333
Pennsylvania	1	4	.200
Dartmouth	0	4	.000

STAR WHO JUMPED TO THE FEDERALS

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club. Russell Betsill, pitcher, obtained from Ottumwa, was released to Scranton, and Roe Carlton, an outfielder, bought from Kalamazoo, was sent to Wilkesbarre.

Two recruits have been disposed of by the Detroit American league baseball club